

Consistent Character Across Scenes

An AI-generated model appears in a variety of environments and scenarios – from coastal landscapes to urban interiors – wearing different outfits. The key challenge is maintaining a consistent character identity throughout the series, regardless of lighting, pose, or setting. My workflow ensures that the model looks like the same person in every image, with believable context and coherent visual language.

